Outset Media games get perfect score with Toytips.com

Victoria, BC, November 6, 2003 – Board game company Outset Media received perfect 5/5 scores in its four product reviews by consumer-focused international consulting firm Toy Tips this week.

The games tested include Professor Noggin's Card Game Series, Conjecture for Kids, All American Trivia Board Game Junior Edition, and My First 3Nature Games.

“Toy Tips does such a thorough job in its testing, with psychologists, teachers, occupational therapists and research analysts. To get such high scores with our games is a true accomplishment,” said David Manga, president of Outset Media.

Marianne Szymanski, founder and president of Toy Tips, said Outset Media games passed the scrutiny of the testing with flying colors.

“Teachers use the products in their curriculum [during part of the testing]. I tell them to be strict in the reviews, so to have such a high score is great,” she said. “[The Outset Media games] got great scores, they all tested well. One teacher started a review of the Professor Noggin games with ‘WOW,’ along with three paragraphs of praise.”
